WHAT THE GENERAL SAID!

A noted General being asked by some of his friends how he liked Texas, replied: "If I was obliged to choose between Hell and Texas, I would choose the former." and Texas, I would remose the former the above saying is verified every day by parties moving from the North, East and South, and as they cannot decide exactly as to the existence of the former, they certainly avoid Texas, and like sensible, industrious people, seek a productive country, such as Missouri, Kansas, Colora-do, Nebraska and the Far West. Reader, do. Nebraska and the Far West. Reader, are you contemplating a trip to such a country on business or pleasure? If so select the line having the least change of cars and best accommodations. The Old Reliable Hannibal & St. Joseph R. R. (the Pioneer line west of the Mississippi River) offers you through Day Conches and Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars from Chicago, Ills., Toledo, Ohlo, and Indianapolis, Indiana, to the Missouri River without change. What the Yellow Fever Costs.

New Orleans Picayane, 19th. If we take the total cases of yellow fever as representing the extra burden which our people have to hear on the score of sickness, our friends abroad may have some data from which to judge of the amount of distress in New Orleans at this time, and of the probable increase during the next forty days The total number of cases of fever reported here was, at 12 m. yesterday, 5,211. If the average expense of each case is put at the low estimate of one hundred dollars, the grand total will be more than $500,000. The burials of those who have fallen aumber 1,638 up to the same date, the average expense of each burial having been not less than $100, or a total of more than $150,000. In all probability the number of cases and the number of doaths between this time and frost will be less than the number already recorded, but if the new cases for the balance of the season should be no more than 3,500, and the total deaths to be recorded should be no more than 700, the additional expense on fewer account will not be less than $420,000. By this estimate the epidemie will have cost our citizens $1,080,000.

Queer Parlor Pets.

In the middle of my parlor I have you remember, a curious republic of industrious hornets; their nest hangs to the ceiling by the same twig on which it was so admirably built and contrived in the woods. Its removal did not disbuzzing that no one takes any notice of them; and though they are fierce and vindictive, yet kindness and hospitality has made them useful and harmless .--Farmer's Letter.

SECRETARY REPUBLIC INTER-VIEW RIG-

The following interview was printed in the last issue of the Builtay Repub-lic. The interview is trustmenthy in every particular, for both it and the editor's comments were submitted to Mr. Sherman and carefully revised. The editor, Mr. Brisbin Walker, is now a great admirer of Mr. Sherman. The interview is as fellows

"It strikes me as rather curious," said the Becratary, swinging around in his easily turning chair, and haying down a blue and red penell, "that Hale should be defeated. He has a large number of workingness in his district, and was the oe cereated. He has a large number of workingmen in his district, and was the most persistent man in Congress in finding work for them to do. He was always petting appropriations for government work in his district—some that I do not think were necessary, and did not approve of —and yet he was defeated. It shows that many the was defeated. that personal popularity is not to be made by getting appropriations for public work work"

"What do you think, Mr Sherman, will be the general effect of the Malne election on the Republican party"
This was a leading question, but was answered without hesitation. "I think," said Mr. Sherman, "that there exists a very great misapprehension on the subject of national fluoness. Of course a large number of recruits to the National party have been drawn from the Republican party. In fact, some of the very men who were first to take up antialsvery doctrines seem to be first to imbiog greenback notions. These men, in becoming Greenbackers, do not cease to bibe greenback notions. These men, in becoming Greenbackers, do not cease to be lieuwhitens, and can never become Democrats. My financial policy has been so unimpressated that they have thought it necessary to seek a new party as a re-lief, for the hard times, but these misre presentations time will correct, and when they come to understand the true situa-tion, they will, I believe, senew their al-legiance to the Republican party MATIONAL BANK MOTES AND LIKE SE PEN

NEW ORLEANS, September 16 .- The mortunry report for the week ending at Sunday 6 p. m., shows total deaths, 703. By yellow fever, 501—472 white, 29 black; all other fevers, 60. Of these 312 were natives of Louisiana, 99 of other states, 292 foreigners, and 309 children. Notwithstanding reports to A Slight Abatement at the Board of Health, the universal opinion is that the yellow fever is not diminished. Prominent physicians receive as many calls as ever, but have no time to report. Total deaths at 6 p. m., 24: total cases reported, 100, about onethird the number which occurred. Isolated cases of destitution still discovered. To day a northern man and wife were found in a house on Custom House street, dying and alone. In front of the Howard Association a man became delirious with fever in three minutes. Holly Spainos, Sept. 16 .- This has

He has reached here after much delay and great trouble. The doctor came through Grand Junction. He reports a deplorable state of affairs there, no organization and the people in great distress. He says the citizens there intend to organize to-night, and put themselves in shape for work. It is just to say that Dr. Beatty, of Mobile, is there and doing all he can as a physician. FALL RIVER, Sept. 16 .- Charles P

Stickney was arrested this morning, on two charges, for embezzling the funds of the Manufacturers' Gas company to the amount of $150,000. He has not been taken to jail owing to his weak condition, but is under guard in his own house. A book keeper in the employ of Castner, Stickney & Wellington was intercepted last night as he was about leaving for New York, and a trunk taken from him was found to contain the books of the firm, which, it is said, contain damaging evidence against Stickney. Stickney will doubtless be arraigned in a day or two.

Washington, September 16.-W.O. S. Wilson, assistant teller of the office of redemption, of the Treasury Department, was arrested this afternoon as a defaulter. Wilson was recommended last week for dismissal by the chief of his division, principally on the ground of general inefficiency, and examination into his books to-day showed that in just one mouth he abstracted $1,000 from packages consigned to him for delivery to custodians of vaults, in the general order of business. Wilson has been 15 years in the department. He admits the theft, and gave bail.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Major General James Shields is very ill here with an attack of bronchitis, and is suffering from intercostal neuralgia, which affected his right side and arm. He was removed to Brooklyn last evening, and was doing well last night. A dispatch was sent to his family on Saturlay night, informing them of his condidtion, and it is reported some of the nembers will come on immediately. harloston (S. C.) News and Courier When the scourge for this time has passed away, and the people have leisure to reflect, it is hoped that this all-important subject will not be banished from their minds, but that a National Convention, consisting of delegates from all parts of the Union, will be called to consider it. These delegates should be men of position and intelligenco-men who have a stake in the communities which they represent. They should collect from the testimony of experts, publie records, private diaries and contemperary newspapers all the information possible to be had on the subject, and they should elaborate some practical plan by which the occurrence of such pestilence hereafter would be rendere merally impossible. If the power o the General Government should b equisite to carry out that plan then ngress should take the matter in hand and pass the necessary laws.

SECRETARY RESERVAN INTER-VIEWERS

The following interview was printed in the last issue of the Bullay Republic. The interview is trustmorthy in every particular, for both it and the editor's comments were submitted to Mr. Sherman and carefully revised. The editor, Mr. Brisbin Walker, is now a great admirer of Mr. Sherman. The interview is as fellows THE MAINE BURCHION

"It strikes me as rather curious," said

"It strikes me as rather curious," said the Secretary, swinging around in his easily turning chair, and inying down a blue and red pencil, "that Hale should be defeated. He has a large number of workingmen in his district, and was the most persistent man in Congress in finding work for them to do. He was always getting appropriations for government work in his district—some that I do not think were necessary, and did not approve of—and yet he was defeated. It shows that personal popularity is not to be made that personal popularity is not to be mad by griting appropriations for public

"What do you think, Mr Sherman, will be the general effect of the Maine election on the Republican party."

This was a leading question, but was answered without healtation. "I think," said Mr. Sherman, "that there exists a said Mr. Sherman, "that there exists a very great misapprehension on the subject of national finances. Of course a large number of recruits to the National party have been drawn from the Republican party. In fact, some of the very men who were first to take up anti-slavery doctrines seem to be first to imslavery doctrines seem to be first to im-bibe greenback notions. These men, in becoming Greenbackers, do not cease to be liepublicans, and can never become Democrats. My financial policy has been o misspeciate. My mancial policy has been so misspeciated that they have thought it necessary to seek a new party as a relief for the hard times, but these misse presentations time will correct, and when they come-to understand the true sittuition, they will, I believe, benew their allegiance to the Republican party. MATIONAL BANK MOTES 19. LEGIT PEN

OThere are some points, Mr. Sherman, that I have never clearly understood in your policy. Why, for instance, do you consider national bank notes to be better as a form of corrency than government legal-tender."

"I do not. On the contrary, a currency

But there same spirit animates the greater portion of the Democratic greenbackers, who hating the cause for which the greenback was issued, seek to ruin its character by becoming its special champions.

Clev. Palmen says that groenbackism is a relie of copperheadism, and the results of copperheadism, and the results of the copperheadism, and the results of the control of the copperheadism. "There would then have been about $600,000,000, and, with the coin resources gamination, and, with the coin resources of this country, I am satisfied that remaining the would have been impossible."

"I do not own a single bond, nor have I for five or six years. And so far from working in the interest of the bondholders, I was the first to introduce a funding scheme in the Senate, and afterward to advocate a bond which would be laken advocate a bond which would be taken up by the people at large instead of by capitalists. In 1888 I introduced a bill which, after a vigorous fight, passed the senate but never went through the House, it of und all government securities bearing a high rate of interest in 4, 43, and 5 per cent bonds. I was, indeed, the first to urge the importance of a 4 per cent bond into which greenbacks could be convertible at will. If my refunding scheme had been adopted, I believed then, and I believe now, that greenbacks would have stond at par in gold several years since.—This funding scheme was not in the interest of the bondholler. It was in the interest of the bondholler. "You did urge, then, the adoption of a convertible bond."

I did, and was the first to do so."

(Bitte the Burton Dally Advertise.) LIFE INSURANCE.

The New York Heres, in a series of articles,

The New York Times, in a series of articles, has presented its theory in relation to life insurance. It begins by noting its deckine. By careful figuring, it makes the assets of all the companies to be cleven millions of deliars less at the close of 1877 than they were at the close of 1876; that is the assets at the close of 1876; that is the assets at the close of 1876;

of 1876; that is, the assets at the close of '76 were more than four hundred and seven millions, at the close of '77 they were more than three hundred and ninety at millions. It is not at painstaking to compare the decline of the assets of like amount, or of any proper-tionate amount in any other business, and forgets also to name the leasening of liabilities. The fact fremeins that it is stronge beyond appeared that it amakes a transport that it is stronge beyond necount that in such a year as the one just passed the grand total of assets the not decrease four times the amount named, and so they would have done but that the securities selected by the companies were taken with excellent judge ment. The expenditures and extravagances in doing husiness come in for their share of reprehousion. This kind of talk has become chron but every new writer rushes for a new patent. There may be exceptional cases, but the salaries paid to officers of life insurance companies are smaller, if the magnitude of their respective trusts is considered, then to any other subtried men, and the expenses of a first-class mutual life insurance company, in proportion to the amount of the business and profits paid its point we are outsiders and proving pair in policy-hobiters, show a smaller percentage than those of any other corporative or even any large ingreamite concern. It will require the capital of twenty banks to make a sum equa to the resources of a large life company, and the salaries of the bank officers will be five the saluries of the bank officers will be hed times as much as those of the company. The salary of many an agent, whose concern represents less than a couple of millions of dollars, is treble that of president of a life insurance company whose assets are nearly fally millions. There are book-keepers and third and fourth partners in mercantile houses whose separate salaries are larger than is paid whose separate salaries are larger than a pair the secretary of a large life company, and the duties and responsibilities of that secretary far cutnumber and outnessure those of many such business men. It is no argument that a life company is a trust company, and so its business should be cheaply done. The argument really is, that the best of men should be chosen and the best of salaric should be paid. There are people who would be willing to accept the posi-tion of the President of the United States at a smuller figure than Mr. Hayon receives, and, not to be too particular, would take that of president of a flour shing life insurance company for a fair consideration. It only imppens the neither office is to be disposed of to men of their calibre. There has been of late general confusion in business, failures where they were least exno meaness, manres where they were they peo-pected, defalcations and irregularities by peo-ple high in trust. There has been depreciation in real estate, and much suffering in the market of manufacturing stocks. But the stalwart life insurance companies are, from the force of circumstances and the law of internal manage ment, stronger than they ever were. We can imagine the quiet contempt with which the officers of first-class companies read the distribes of writers, in all parts of the country who are as ignorms of their unmeasured reliability as of the grandeur of life insurance business systematically conducted. A paper, knowing how readily certain readers sympathize with objections raised and plans denounced, takes about the decline of life insurance and since little references that are ance, and cites little references that are ance, and ones intle references that are statistical, but does not know to give the great field that redeem aspections. The decline of life insurance i A man may as well prate of the decline of the sun. A few clouds at times pass over his disc, and he is said to set at night, ant he, like life insurance, gladdons all the earth. No transacted business of whatever nature has been subjected to such accutiny, and no human institution is so well able to sland it. There is not to be named a corporative power that approaches in point of security a first-class that approaches in point of security a first-class life insurance company. There is not a system that in this hour of general depression is working so much good. By way of distribu-tion of moneys, now so much needed by those who have held long-time endowments, or by the families of those who in time provided for the families of those who in thus provided for their own decease, the life insurance companies are proving their worth. Before us is the list of payments made in this last mouth of July by one company only: Consecutory Microsa, Lipe Insegance (b), Harrows, August 1, 1878.

The entire amount of all the losses sustained in the whole thirty years is more than equivel-by the amount of money paid to its own adject-holders by this company alone. Life by the amount or money pane to us our palicy-holders by this company alone. Lefe insurance is in its early youth, but already its comparative magnitude of values may be understood by the fact that while the entire amount of recorded gross assets of all the fire, marino, and fire-marine insurance com-panies in the United States, several hundred in number, is less than one hundred and forty millions of dollars, the life insurance companies, some thirty in number, hold admarine insurance o fire, marine, and firecompanies, some thirly in number, hold admitted assets of more than four hundred millions of dollars. And life insurance is but thirty years of age. It has just begun to live. In the coming centuries, more than now, ive. [Title the Horium Dally American.] LIFE INSURANCE.

The New York Thors, in a series of articles, has presented its theory in relation to life insurance. It begins by noting its decline. By careful figuring, it makes the assets of all the companies to be cleren millions of dollars less at the close of 1877 than they were at the close of 1877 than they were at the close of 1878 that the themselves at the close of 1878. of 1676; that is, the assets at the close of '76 were more than four hundred and seven millions, at the close of '77 they were more than three hundred and ninety six millions. It is not at painstaking to compare the decline of the assors of like amount, or of any properthouse smount in any other busi forgets also to name the lessening of liabilities. The fact remains that it is strange beyond account that in such a year as the one just passed the grand total of assets the not decrease. four times the amount named, and so they would have done but that the securities selected by the companies were taken with excellent judge ment. The expenditures and extravagances in doing husiness come in for their share of rapre-heusion. This kind of talk has become chronic. but every new writer rushes for a new patent There may in exceptional cases, but the salaries paid to officers of life insurance companies ar maller, if the magnitude of their trusts is considered, that to any other sularied en, and the exponent of a first-class mutual life insurance company, in proportion to the amount of the business and profits paid its palicy-hobiers, show a smaller percentage than those of any other corporative or even any large mercantile concern. It will require the capital of twenty banks to make a sum equa capital of twenty banks to make a sum equa-to the resources of a large life company, and the salaries of the bank officers will be five times as much as those of the company. The salary of many an agent, whose concern represents less than a couple of millions of dollars, is treite that of president of a life insurance company whose assets are nearly fully millions. There are book-keepers and hity minion. The third and fourth partners in mercantile houses whose separate salaries are larger than is paid the secretary of a large life company, and the duties and responsibilities of that secretary far outnumber and outnessure those of many such outnumber and outnessure those of many such charters. outnumber and outnessure those of many such business men. It is no argument that a life company is a trust company, and so its business should be cheaply done. The argument really is, that the less of men should be chosen and the less of subaric schooled be paid. There are normals who would be well by a discrete the manipeople who would be willing to accept the posi-tion of the President of the United Blates at a smaller figure than Mr. Hayes receives, and smaller figure than Mr. Hayou receives, and, not to be too particular, would take that of president of a fisar shing life insurance company for a fair consideration. It only happens that neither office is to be disposed of to men of their calibra. There has been of late general confusion in business, failures where they were least extensions. At the calculation and irregularities by prepected, defalcations and irregularities by pecple high in trust. There has been depreciation in real estate, and much suffering in the market of manufacturing stocks. But the stalwart life insurance companies are, from the force of circumstances and the law of internal management, atrouger than they ever were. We can imagine the quiet contempt with which the afficers of first-class companies read the distribes of writers, in all parts of the country, who are as ignorant of their unmeasured reliability as of the grandeur of life insurance business systematically conducted. A paper, knowing how readily certain readers sympa-thize with objections raised and plans de-nounced, talks about the decline of life insurance, and cites little references that are statistical, but does not know to give the great facts that redeem aspersions. The decline of life insurance ! A man may as well prate of the decline of the sun. A lew clouds at times pass over his disc, and he is said to sot at night, the, like life insurance, gladdons all the earth. No transacted business of whatever nature has been subjected to such scrutiny, and no human institution is so well able to stand it. There is not to be named a corporative power that approaches in point of security a first-class life insurance company. There is not a system that in this hour of general depression is working so much good. By way of distribution of management of the system of the s tion of moneys, now so much needed by those who have held long-time endowments, or by the families of those who in time provided for their own decease, the life insurance companies are proving their worth. Before us is the list f payments made in this last mouth of July

A total of more than three hundred and seventy thousand dolbars, without let or him drance on the day of materity of each respect ive claim, and an ability to pay treble or quadruple the amount if circumstances de-manded. There have been some failures among manded. There have been some minires among the insurance companies since the establish-ment of the business of life insurance. The entire amount of all the losses sustained in the whole thirty years is more than equated by the amount of money paid to its own miliev-holders by this common alone. Life the whole thirty years is more tunn expected by the amount of money paid to its own policy-holders by this company alone. Lafe insurance is in its early youth, but already its comparative magnitude of values may be understood by the fact that while the entire amount of recorded gross assets of all the fire, marine, and fire-marine insurance companies in the United States, several hundred in number, is less than one hundred and forty millions of dollars, the life insurance companies, some thirty in number, hold admitted assets of more than feat hundred millions of dollars. And life insurance is but thirty years of age. It has just begun to live, in the coming conturies, more than now, it will be the one great corporate business to be guarded by the wisdom of the wise, and its prosperity will be commensurate with the progress of time.

WHY THE HAIR FALLS OUT. AND HOW TO RESTORE ITS STRENGTS AND COLOR. -- Back hair is secreted by a little vestcio ur gland, the latter being nourished by a amail island-vessel. As long as these blood-vessels furnish sufficient encouragement the hair will continue to grow; but if from discusor other cause they become torpid or obstruct of the lair will necessarily become dry and fall off. It is here the wanderful virtues of "London Hair-Color Restoror" are manifested, as its tonic properties excite these hair fullicies as its tonic properties excite these hair follicies to increased activity and completely restore the scalp to a healthy condition, and a fine growth of hair in its natural youthful color is sure to be the result. Apart from its tonic and coloring qualities, "London Hair-tolor Restore" is the most cleanly and satisfur of all heir dressings, making it indepensables on the lofter of every lady and gentlepan.
